What Kid's Need to Succeed # 20

Time at Home.

Summer is busy but home can be a place of enjoyment and fulfillment.

Have a family meeting to discuss how many times your child can go out with friends and how many nights they should spend at home with the family. Make home time warm and inviting, fun for everyone, a place where your kids want to be. Play favorite games, have video night, read, take walks or bike rides. Invite friends over on "at home nights".

Monitor where your children go and who they are with. Limit work hours for each individual child's needs.

If you feel your kids argue too much or have trouble communicating, seek outside help. Counselors, grandparents and your friends may have great advice for you.

Encourage your children to join teams, clubs and groups that will uplift. Celebrate holidays with a bang.

How to Create an Emergency Binder www.foodstoragemadeeasy.net

What is an Emergency Binder? As we talk about under Getting Started, each family should have a disaster kit put together which includes things like first aid items, 72 hour food kits, extra outfits, etc. An emergency binder is an integral part of this kit. Basically you ask yourself this question: Would I be frustrated or mad if I lost this item in an earthquake, flood, or other emergency situation?

What should I include in my Emergency Binder?

- birth certificates
- passports
- social security cards
- copies of your credit cards front and back
- homeowners insurance policy
- auto insurance policy
- life insurance policy
- bank statements
- retirement statements
- internet passwords (banking, personal, work etc)
- immunization records
- utility statements
- work/tax documents that would be difficult to replace
- CASH - keep a variety of small bills on hand

We like to put each item in a sheet protector and add divider labels to put them into sections. This makes it easy to pull things in and out when you need to access them.

Do I store copies or originals? This is a personal choice but we recommend storing the originals IN your emergency binder and store photocopies of them in a filing cabinet, and also scan a digital copy and give it to a trusted friend or put it in a safe deposit box. If your house burnt down or was flooded it would be so relieving to know that you don't have to go through the hassle of replacing those documents. If you already have a water/fireproof filing cabinet or safe you may choose to just put copies in your binder so that you can have the information on hand in an emergency but know that you can return home and find the originals intact at a later time.

What should I store my binder in? Even though the idea is to grab the disaster kit and bring it with you, there is always the chance that you won't be home during an emergency. In this scenario you would still want to return home and find your binder in good condition (especially if your original documents are IN the binder). We recommend storing your binder in a fireproof/ waterproof locked box that is small enough to be transported with you in an emergency.

UTAH LAKE FESTIVAL June 6th. 10:00 am—2:00 pm

The fifth annual Utah Lake Festival will be held Saturday, June 6, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at Utah Lake State Park.

The purpose of the festival is to offer Wasatch Front residents a chance to get outside and enjoy Utah Lake, experience its many recreational opportunities, and learn about the lake's ecosystem, native species and the importance of stewardship.

The festival, which is free, will offer an array of activities for everyone, including the opportunity to make and wear fish hats, free fishing, canoeing demonstrations, a sail boat regatta, games and activities for kids, music and boat tours. There will also be free hot dogs, snow cones, apples and water for festival attendees.

Park entrance is free during the festival. Historically, Utah Lake was used recreationally much more than it is today. More than 20 resorts once dotted the shoreline. Showboats, with live music and dancing, took people out for excursions to Bird Island, and for decades boat races were held as a Memorial Day mainstay in the Provo Harbor.

Although there are countless stories to be told about Utah Lake's past, the lake has much to offer today. Whether you visit for adventure or relaxation, this massive freshwater lake and its miles of shoreline are sure to please everyone.
